FARROW & BALL PITCH BLACK AND OXFORD STONE

"When the colors black and camel come together in a space, it's an explosion of understated chic! Thick black glossy walls with hints of camel applied on the backs of bookcases creates intrigue. Everyone feels special when they arrive—it's as if every day was a holiday!"

BENJAMIN MOORE CONSTELLATION AND SWISS COFFEE

"Put a twist on the classics with the light but vibrant Constellation blue balanced with the clean yet not stark-white Swiss Coffee.

The combination tones down the palette a notch and creates a more sophisticated feeling. It's especially beautiful in a coastal space and can make for a spa-like bedroom oasis. You can also mix it up with Swiss Coffee on the walls and trim and Constellation on the ceiling for an elegant dining room."

DUNN-EDWARDS PAINTS LEMON SLICE AND BENJAMIN MOORE HALO

"Fresh and current, this combination of vibrant yellow with natural hemp will provide the perfect backdrop to that boho-chic décor that's so in right now. Bright yellow walls are reminiscent of that California sunshine and, when trimmed out with this toned-down neutral shade, just say 'chill!'"

BENJAMIN MOORE NIGHT FLOWER AND PLEASANT PINK

"This red is somewhere between oxblood and burgundy, and it balances just the right amount of cool (think 'raspberry') and warm (think 'brick') tones. I love the idea of pairing it with a blush neutral that has warmer undertones like this one. Painting a paneled library in this red is expected, but add a blush upholstered sofa, and the room takes on a completely different level of sophistication and surprise!"

BENJAMIN MOORE PEALE GREEN AND MONTEREY WHITE

"Green is personally my favorite color. There are so many ways it can go, but one of my favorites is this one by Benjamin Moore. It's fresh without being too bright or too preppy—it's neither too yellow nor too blue. It changes with the light and is just the perfect verdant green! I like to pair it with a creamy white, like this one, on the ceiling. White trim is fine, but the ivory ceiling takes the edge off."
